

NEW YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent. NEW YORK, Sept. 25. The Car-Cushion Question. One of the most interesting of the minor questions of the day is, "Are car-cushions clean?" Can we be certain that upon taking our seats and paying our six cents fare, that we are not contracting a contagious disease? Is not the indolence of a car-rider intensely insectivorous? Are not mosquitoes a joy and bedbugs things of beauty beside those nameless horrors which in the cushions of passenger-cars do congregate? The question has been getting simpering in the newspapers all during the summer months, and a certain New York physician, who deserves to have his services provided for himself and family to the third and fourth generations over all the roads, has been making himself ontologically conspicuous by the public assertion that the car-cushions were immaculate. A communicative conductor, however, informs me that skin-diseases are more life among people of his class than any other. They live too much among cushions. This conductor may possibly have given too much license to his remarks, but it is a subject on which he could well afford to talk. It is pleasant to think of these things whenever I take the cars, which is seldom. When in stage, or steamboat, or carriage, it is sweet to know how much better off I am than hundreds of my fellow-metropolitans who are being slowly covered with insectivorous Vesuvians. Many of the car-lines have abandoned the use of cushions altogether. This is all very well in the summer, but now that the cool weather is approaching, a cushionless seat becomes cold comfort. We are told to keep the extremities warm, but how can we if we are to ride from November to May upon seats devoid of cushions?

That Post-Office Fence has commenced his work of death. I have before mentioned that it is built with the curbstone, so as to entirely monopolize the sidewalk. Upon the eastern side, along Park Row, and so round into Centre street, the railroad tracks run close to the curbstone edge—there is certainly not a foot's interval between. On Thursday, a man inadvertently standing at a certain point within this space was knocked down and crushed to death. The work was done in a minute, but the coroner's inquest has expended a driver of the car, who has passed censure, however, upon the persons under whose direction the fence was erected, and the papers embodying the censure have been forwarded to Mayor Hall. Such an accident as this has been anticipated ever since the first erection of the fence. And it will be repeated unless the fence is pulled down. If this is done, what becomes of the contract effected by the enterprising party who at present lets out spaces to advertisers? Day after day a kaleidoscopic interest attaches to these spaces. They bloom with the most brilliant hues. All the colors palpitating in the realm of job printing are called into requisition. They are as prismatic as a flower-garden, could one be imagined in which the hues were perpetually shifting. The bill-sticker's heart swells with joy. Paste pays. His cup overflows. So does his bucket. He works through the small hours of the night. He and the scavenger ply the brush together. To-day Bonner blithereth forth announcements of his Ledger; to-morrow the Pain-Painter is at work; the third day the virtues of Insect Powder are blazoned forth. The weekly-story newspapers have largely slapped their advertisements upon this fence. When it is demolished the great advertisement medium of Gotham will be gone.

The Gold Room yesterday was a more demotic scene than it usually is. From twelve to two a steady stream poured out, and another steady stream poured in. Inside the Gold Room itself there was scarcely room to budge. Nothing could be seen but waving arms, struggling necks, wriggling backs; nothing could be heard but hoarsely gesticulating voices. Around the gold indicator in Maiden lane and opposite the bulletin posted up outside the Evening Post office, large crowds swayed. Nassau street, below Wall street, was all but impassable. The restaurants in that neighborhood had not one-third their daily supply of customers. What but the clerk could swallow his fried in peace with $1,000,000 selling at 160? Right down, good, solid gambling was the order of the day, and I know not upon how many broken brokers to-day's sun rose.

The Bridal Trouseau of a New York belle, Miss Martin, who is to become the wife of Lord Ainsley, has attracted, I might almost say, public inspection. Newspaper paragraphs lately inform us of the trousseau of a Swedish princess that was placed on exhibition (the trousseau, not the princess) on the condition that it was not to be touched by visitors. Among the visitors one of the old Court ladies discovered the prospective bride herself, fumbling the garments with eager hands. If I could imagine the future Lady Ainsley in a similar position, I might also imagine her being struck with childish delight at the extreme beauty and richness of the boots and bonnets, the fans and founces, the flowers and feathers, the silks and satins, the laces and linens that constitute this exquisite outfit. One white lace overdress is valued at nearly $200, and many of the breakfast saks are valued at $100 each. The wedding, which is to take place in November, is to be succeeded by a two years' tour. Lord Ainsley has done things very fast in this country. He made love fast, and friends fast—very different thing from fast friends, however—but this is not saying that he is by any means a fast one. In fashionable circles he is regarded as the coming man.

Mr. Koopmanschap, the gentleman who had the coolest of the coolie at heart, has been making arrangements in this city for 1000 select Chinamen to be sent to Texas to work upon roads there. The men and the machinery are already being shipped at Chicago. ALL BARS.

THE PRESIDENT.

A Resume of His Recent Travels—His Annual Message Foreshadowed—The Financial and Foreign Policies.

A correspondent of the New York Herald devoted a half column of that journal to a resume of President Grant's recent journey—during which he satisfied a desire to see himself the resources of the Middle and New England States—and sums up the whole as follows: With this increased fund of experience the President now settles down to an active resumption of the reins of government. The heads of the departments also returning will assist the President in arranging the business of the Government in anticipation of the meeting of Congress. The executive officers of the departments will, at once prepare the material of their annual reports to the President, and will have them ready for the President's investigation in November. The President will not begin upon his annual message to Congress until all these reports are in and until he has carefully scrutinized all their details. It will embrace the great questions of home policy, finance, and the collection of the revenue and the administration of Indian affairs. The intricate subjects of diplomacy embraced in the relations of this Government with foreign nations will be carefully and minutely considered.

The healthy condition of the finances is one of the prominent points already visible in his responsible control of this vital interest. The President's policy is embraced under three simple propositions—economy in the administration of the finances, the collection of all the taxes, and the reduction of the national debt as rapidly as the interests of trade and commerce will admit. Since the accumulation of the enormous debt incurred by the late President, the country has heard much of economy and collection of taxes. The official statements which have already been put forth show that these things are no longer mere words, but are being carried into effect. The expenses of Government have been materially reduced, and more revenue has flowed in than ever before. It is understood that the President anticipates a reduction of the national debt from $600,000,000 to $500,000,000 of the national debt during his administration, provided no extraordinary circumstances continue to check this, or it should be deemed inexpedient to make so rapid a reduction. The burdens under which the people labored during the preceding administration are already put forth looking to a funding of the debt at a lower rate of interest and a modification of the internal revenue laws, so as to relieve the vital industries of the country. The President expresses himself gratified with the success of his Indian policy, which promises even better results of course satisfied, and the waste and extravagance incident to the old system and the endless wars thus brought on are stopped. The foreign policy, which is rising into a degree of importance requiring a stern course, is likely to receive exactly such treatment, and it would be wise for England and France to look out for themselves and not meddle with the affairs of Spain. The Cuban problem is evidently drawing to a rapid solution. It is not at all likely that the policy of the Government will be in the least disturbed by what England or France may have to say.

A CARD.—I have during the last year been selling my elegant Stock & Co.'s and Haines Bro.'s Pianos nearly as low as at any former time. I seek less than three-fourths of the regular factory-marked retail price, but do not bind myself to any plan of "fixed prices" not to take even less than these reduced old-time figures. A call and examination of the most complete stock of Pianos and Organs ever seen in Philadelphia will satisfy all. J. E. GOULD, No. 923 Chestnut street.

SUNSHINE! SUNSHINE!—We claim the following among our improvements:— 1. It is so constructed that ONE-THIRD MORE OF THE HEATING SURFACE EXTENDS INTO THE ROOM, giving that much more additional heat without extra fuel. 2. It is the only WARM AIR FIREPLACE HEATER in the market. Like the regular built cellar Heater, it loses no heat, but confines it all to its legitimate purposes. 3. The fuel magazine is DOUBLE the usual size, extending from the fire-box to the top of the stove, with capacity for twenty-four hours' supply of coal. 4. The patent DOUBLE COVER FOR COAL MAGAZINE consumes the gas, prevents escape of gas into the room, and makes it impossible for any puffing or explosions to occur. This is an advantage possessed by no other fireplace stove in the market. 5. There are THREE AIR CHAMBERS, whereas a brick circulation is kept up, drawing the cold air in the room through heated flues INTO A LARGE HOT AIR RESERVOIR, at the back of the stove. 6. No side-pipes are used, as the air is heated in a RESERVOIR HAVING PORTS FOR RADIATING HEAT AND NOT IN A BACK, supplying large quantities of hot air, without waste of heat or fuel. 7. The SUNSHINE utilizes the waste heat so thoroughly that we frequently heat an adjoining room on the first, besides heating the rooms in the second and third stories. 8. A damper on the top of the stove, connected with the hot-air flues, CONTROLS THE QUANTITY OF HOT AIR REQUIRED FOR THE USE OF EITHER THE UPPER OR LOWER ROOMS. All other fireplace stoves are very inconvenient in this respect. 9. The Grate is self-cleaning, and NO DUST CAN ESCAPE while shaking it. 10. All parts of this stove are made from the very best materials, and in the most substantial manner, ALL UNDER THE SUPERINTENDENCE OF THE PATENTEE. GEORGE F. BROSCH & CO., No. 323 N. Second street, Philadelphia.

OUR NATIONAL DISEASE.

What is it, and what will cure it? It is a fact that will not be controverted that Dyspepsia is a national disease, to be found from the Presidential mansion to the humble cottage along the marshes of the Atlantic. Symptoms.—There are scarcely two cases of Dyspepsia alike. The symptoms vary. In one case they may be cold hands and feet, oppressive soreness and pain in the pit of the stomach, drowsiness after meals. In another, costiveness, heartburn (so called), fermenting feelings, both mental and physical. In a third, nervousness, the spirits depressed, a foreboding of evil, the mind so depressed that in some cases there is extreme melancholy, and the sufferer is led to commit suicide. In another, harassing belchings, saliva or a watery antrousa profusely running from the mouth, throat irritated with a dry cough, skin dry, then cold, the stools clay colored, restless sleep, at one time bowels constipated, then diarrhoea or dysentery, caused by food matter in the stomach, causing apoplexy and other diseases beyond the power of human skill to control. What will cure it? By indigestion the food lies in the stomach and is decomposed by heat, etc., into a mucus; this mucus adheres to the walls of the stomach until a false membrane is formed, which paralyzes the functions of the digestive organs. To perform a cure this false membrane must be detached, and the stomach healed and brought back to natural tone; without effecting this, it is impossible to effect a cure, and in this mode of treatment Dr. L. Q. C. WISHART'S wonderful cures of the Dyspepsia. The Dyspepsia Pills remove the false lining, and the Pine Tree Tar Cordial heals, making a perfect cure of this dreadful disease.

THE VIRTUES OF TAR.

A very ingenious "sell" upon the Royal Society of Great Britain was perpetrated by Sir Charles Hanbury Williams, a wicked wag of the age, during the furor caused by the discovery of the wonderful healing powers of TAR WATER. Sir Charles sent a communication to the President relating the circumstances of a sailor's breaking his leg on board of the guardship at Chatham, and its perfect union and cure by an application of spun oakum soaked in tar. After the communication had been read and printed in the Royal Transactions, he sent a second letter, stating that he had forgotten to state in the former correspondence that the leg was a wooden one! Although this joke was a sore one for the society, it did not injure the reputation of Tar as a remedy, for its legitimate cures were so wonderful that odes were written in its praise, and the celebrated Bishop Berkeley published two voluminous works describing, endorsing, and registering its virtues. From the failure of scientific men, at that period, to extract and concentrate the curative principle from the crude tar, its nauseousness caused it to fall into disrepute, and its great healing powers were lost to mankind until Dr. L. Q. C. Wishart succeeded in depriving the specific of its unpleasant and crude particles, and in his PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL offering to the afflicted all that was valuable, while the other parts were eliminated by its careful preparation. As soon as this was accomplished the remedy was again endorsed by the faculty, and the cures were such as to convert its enemies and firmly establish it as one of the greatest blessings to suffering humanity. Its success was immediate and wide-spread, and its manufacture became of great importance and a source of wealth to its reviver. A long life was spent for the welfare of mankind by Dr. Wishart in perfecting his discovery and promulgating its usefulness, and at his decease (which took place but recently) the method of preparation on the extension of its usefulness devolved upon his son.

It cures colds and coughs with marvellous celerity, and is the only preparation which approaches to a specific. It does not cover and patch up, but eradicates disease by removing the cause, and for obstinate, long-continued catarrhs, and consequently of the incipient stages of consumption, is the only certain remedy in the pharmacopoeia. It would be a waste of the reader's time to enumerate cases for the remedy is so well known, its virtues have been so thoroughly tested, that eulogy is superfluous and reference not requisite. Not only is an internal remedy in its value, but externally it heals sores and irritations, and as a pleasant fumigator in the sick room stands above all others.

FINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree, obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the tar, by which its highest medical properties are retained.

It is the only safeguard and reliable remedy which has ever been prepared from the juice of the Pine Tree.

It invigorates the digestive organs and restores the appetite.

It strengthens the debilitated system.

It purifies and enriches the blood, and expels from the system the corruption which serotina breeds on the lungs.

It dissolves the mucus or phlegm which stops the air passages of the lungs.

Its healing principle acts upon the irritated surface of the lungs and throat, penetrating to each diseased part, relieving pain and subduing inflammation.

It is the result of years of study and experiment, and it is offered to the afflicted with the positive assurance of its power to cure the following diseases, if the patient has not too long delayed a resort to the means of cure:—

Consumption of the Lungs, Cough, Sore Throat and Breast, Bronchitis, Liver Complaint, Blind and Bleeding Piles, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria, etc.
